Living Death Valley

DVD by Bristlecone Media

Film Abstract

In Living Death Valley, one of America's most enchanting landscapes is unveiled in this visually and musically lavish exploration of a land as foreboding as its name. The film takes us on a year's journey through remote areas of Death Valley National Park where we gain an intimate perspective of the land and its many moods. Through variations in time lapse photography and high definition video set to a poignant music score, the viewer experiences the unfolding of an ecosystem in magnificent detail as it moves through the rhythms of day and season.

This is an Award winning picture, capturing the Best Film Score – Calypso Award at the 2009 Moondance International Film Festival.

LABGS is working on adding a narrator to define some of the unique and fascinating geologic features of the area.

This combination will be captivating!

Creator's Biography

Bristlecone Media takes its namesake from the ancient trees that sit atop the high ridges of the White Mountain range in Eastern California, quietly bearing witness to the unfolding of the millennia.

We are a film production company devoted to education and entertainment through the cinematic arts.

Our aim is to:

- Promote wilderness preservation by exhibiting the mythic wonder of our land and raising awareness of threats to it.
- Promote the preservation of our historic and cultural treasures.
- Make environmentally and socially conscious films exploring relevant issues of our time.
